

The courtroom offers an integrated system whereby personal computers or tablets (not provided) can be connected for video and audio presentations. Those presentations are viewed on a large screen and monitors at counsel tables, the bench, witness box, and the jury box. The presenting attorney or courtroom deputy controls which monitors will display the presentation of evidence. Also available for use by counsel is a document reader, DVD player, and a digital dry erase board at the witness stand (a touch screen monitor which is viewed on display monitors and/or the screen in the courtroom). There is also a WiFi network in the courtroom.

JERS (Jury Evidence Recording System) is available in the Austin Division.

Please contact the assigned courtroom deputy to make arrangements for electronics testing or to bring other equipment into the courthouse.
